Yesterday was a very upsetting day. I drove to Micrographics in Hazelton and did not proof read the microfilm of Open 40. Mary Ellen Sealine was not there and neither was Ruth (who was supposed to help me in Mary Ellen's absence), and so, Laurie, an extremely pleasant but not very helpful young woman, took care of me. There are problems with the microfilm: dust, scratches on the copy, density problems. I left my business card with the 20 rolls of microfilm (10 originals & 10 copies) and on the card to Mary Ellen I wrote the word: "HELP!" When Mary Ellen returns to Hazelton on Monday, I'm sure she will call me. The microfilm of Open 40 must be perfect and I will not endure this slappiness on the part of Micrographics. Clearly I will not pay for the Open 40 microfilm (total cost about $900.00) until I have a perfect ^{microfilm} original and one microfilm copy. I will go where-ever I have to go and do whatever I have to do, but I must have a perfect microfilm copy. It's too important to me. I've put too much of my life into it and will not tolerate an imperfect microfilm copy. The microfilm copy is the copy that I intend as the one that will be passed on to subsequent generations and so it must be perfect. How long will this paper copy last? No wonder. It is very large and bulky and unwieldy and so it appears very vulnerable to me. Open 40 on microfilm is small & compact and very portable & can easily be stored in a bank vault -- do plus -- it is a film copy and much much more durable than paper. The microfilm copy will have to be perfect. That is the copy that will be passed on.

Yesterday I called two more schools and requested applications for the substitute teacher positions there:

- 2) Sasquhanna Community High School

Washed the Benet at RTP's late yesterday afternoon. Job came in the yard just as I was beginning the washing process and he helped. We watched T.V. with RTP and William. At 7PM, Job & I drove into town in our separate vehicles. Job said that he was going up to the 3rd floor ^{of the} and look around. He didn't. I attended the Mayor's Advisory Council meeting. At one point I heard Job's motorcycle drive past City Hall.

Sen Bob Dorn's proposed 1985 city budget ($322,500.00) then are $29,500 budgeted for "City Hall renovations. Hopefully the City Hall renovation money will not be cut from the budget by city council.

Present at the meeting were:

SRP
Sen Dorn
Charlotte Moran
Ken Colville
Mayor Howard
Frank Burnett
Ruth Marmelstein
John Moran
Rev. Claude A. Pullin
Mike Pelfino

The meeting adjourned at about 9 P.M.

Significantly: the Mayor - (1) endorsed Sen's budget proposal, & (2) publicly complimented him on his job performance in recent weeks.
